

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CAPITAL BREWERY BLONDE DOPPLEBOCK WINS AN UNPRECEDENTED SIXTH
PLATINUM MEDAL
CAPITAL HOP CREAM AND US PALE ALE EACH WIN SILVER

Capital Brewery's Blonde Doppelbock has recently been awarded an unprecedented sixth PLATINUM medal from the Beverage Testing Institute's (BTI) World Beer Championships, receiving a score of 97 for a Superlative ranking! The lucky revelers at the 2013 Bockfest held at the Capital Brewery Middleton, WI beer garden were the first to drink the Blonde prior to its official release to the general public on March 1. Some describe it as 'pure liquid heaven', and apparently on March 6th the BTI judges agreed.

Capital Hop Cream has been available for less than a year and garnered a Silver Medal. It was described by the judges as having a 'pale golden amber color. Aromas of eggy fruit pastry, prom corsage, pink peppercorn, herbal tea, with a supple, dryish medium body and a roasted carrot and lettuce greens accented finish. A nice food beer.'

In keeping with the 'beer is food' theme, the judges had this to say about the Capital US Pale Ale – 'Bright golden amber color. Aromas of salt buttered toast, dried pears and oranges, and subtle baking spices with a crisp, dryish medium body and a lively grassy, lemon, peppery, leafy greens like hop finish.' We wonder what Julia Child would have said.

Brewmaster Brian Destree reacted by saying, "It is a tribute to the hard working brewing staff here at Capital that keep putting out these great products."

Capital Blonde Doppelbock is a malt monster, weighing in at 7.8% alcohol by volume (ABV) and 26 International Bittering Units (IBU) and is still available in 12 ounce bottles and on draft. It is only available March through early June while supplies last, so you must get it while you can. Capital Hop Cream is 5.3% ABV with 34 IBU and is available in 12 ounce bottles and on draft all year around. Capital US Pale Ale is 4.9% ABV and 38 IBU and is available in 12 ounce bottles, on draft and in 12 ounce cans all year around.
